TUCSON, AZ (Tucson News Now) - A Tucson contracting firm is building food courts for a Food Network television competition.

Barker Morrissey Contracting will work at The Mall at Sierra Vista this week to construct a design for competing food court vendors on "Food Court Wars," a competition in which two food court entrepreneurs test their concept, market their brand and serve customers for a full day, according to a news release.

The winner gets to continue business with free rent for a year.

The television program is scheduled to air in May.
